

Sense energy monitor

Sense is a real-time home energy monitor that lets homeowners understand their energy and know what's happening at home by showing them what devices are on in their house and how much energy each device uses in real-time. It's a simple box that is installed in your electric panel and a smartphone app.

Sense can tell you in real-time:

- what's on - did I forget to turn my iron off?
- when it's on - what time did my kids get home - when did the garage door open?
- how much energy each device is using - should I replace that old fridge in my basement?

Sense: Intelligence for the home

